The DIMMER VIEW

Controls Eyed for Electricity

Between the oil sheiks of the mid-East and oil tycoons of the United States, energy users are being ripped off.

If a single Arab even looks like he wants to raise the price of oil, that appearance is reflected at U.S. gasoline stations immediately.

In the years past that I and others have blamed U.S. oil tycoons for the high cost of energy, nowhere has there been a denial.

Even if a rebuttal were forthcoming, it would be betrayed by their profit statements, many of which reveal quantum profit jumps. This tends to prove their operations are based on greed rather than need.

Others want to follow suit. But not for profit. There are indications that increased bureaucratic power is the target. Electricity is to be the tool.

The California Energy Commission has proposed a program which wants to do for energy what anti-tobacco activists are attempting for smokers. Complete control appears to be the end result.

According to Assemblyman (76th District) Bill Craven, the California Energy Commission is proposing a program that he classifies as "frightening."

CEC wants to establish "load management standards" for electricity users of the State.

These standards are designed to reduce the consumption of energy during peak hours and times of increased usage, such as heat waves and cold spells in order to reduce the need for future construction of new power plants, he says.

As far as private residences are concerned the Commission requires that this be done by installing remote control devices on certain circuits so that the utility could automatically turn off such appliances as air-conditioners and space and hot-water heaters for short periods of time when electrical demand becomes too great.

"Since the prospect of some unseen hand controlling the use of their air-conditioners and hot-water heaters would be hard for most people to accept, the Commission's report" he says, "tries to allay these fears by promising that the program would be entirely voluntary."

Quoting from the report, "No one — not the utility, nor the state, nor 'Big Brother' — is going to turn off your air conditioner, even briefly, on the hottest day of the year, unless you yourself have agreed to such shut-off."

But a close look at the staff's definition of "voluntary" is one that Big Brother would have loved.

The plan requires utilities in California to install remote control switches in 10 per cent of the homes served until 80 per cent of the total are so equipped.

If the utility firm fails to meet the quota, the Energy Commission can invoke punitive actions such as denying it permission to build new power plants or postponing pending rate increases. Such threats would encourage utilities to put the pressure on consumers — enough to take the "volunteer" part out.

Volunteers would resist because they would have to pay for the control through their electrical bills over a period of time and also suffer turn-off inconveniences from time to time.

If enough users say no and the Energy Commission makes good its threat to disallow new plants, California could have an energy shortage before the 1990s. Then there's a distinct possibility that those remote control devices that had been installed would be getting a lot more use.

Craven admits that the grim picture is based on "worst case" but insists that it is not entirely out of the question. He refers to the Energy Commission's past performances as a guide.

It is hoped that the Energy Commission will recognize the nightmarish prospects of this proposal, says Craven, and will either reject it or at least modify it so that it will be truly voluntary on all accounts.

If it does not, the legislature should do the job for it — by abolishing the Energy Commission once and for all.

Deaf Persons Will Enjoy Special Phones, Low Rates

In a move to help deaf persons use telephones more easily, the California Public Utilities Commission has approved reduced monthly rates on special display terminal equipment for "certified deaf users."

Mattera Can't Make Van Deerlin Debate

Republican Congressional candidate Lawrence C. Mattera chided incumbent 42nd District Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin for refusing to debate him by "setting up conditions he knows are impossible to meet."

At a press conference at the University Club, Mattera showed a letter he had mailed to Van Deerlin challenging him to debate and the response he had received from the incumbent Congressman. In his reply, Van Deerlin stated:

"As you must know, joint appearances in any form are assumed to be to the political advantage of challengers and to the disadvantage of incumbent office-holders. It has therefore seemed to me that if such events are to be scheduled, it should be under a plan applicable to other congressional districts in the county, and not just to mine."

Communications Module, is portable and features a keyboard similar to one on a typewriter and an electronics display area, not unlike a small television screen, on which printed messages are flashed.

The device, which can be coupled to an ordinary telephone set, is being made available at $14 a month to deaf persons, certified either by medical certification or by certification from the Cal. Dept. of Rehabilitation.

The equipment is available at $30.50 per month to persons other than those certified to be deaf.

PUC said the law "requires that deaf persons are entitled to full and equal access to telephone facilities."

The statute also prohibits a utility from "disadvantaging a person because of physical handicap or mental condition."

Because of these provisions, the PUC added, "it appears just and reasonable that the deaf be provided this equipment at a minimum level of rates. Accordingly, the rate of $14 per month, which represents only the costs of materials and labor to the utility, is appropriate for persons who are properly certified as eligible because of deafness."

Rates for the equipment will be in effect a minimum of one year, a trial or experimental period, said the PUC.

WORKIN' ON THE ROAD — Lemon Grove City Manager Jack Shelver watches an unidentified workman work on the city's first major road repair project ($195,000). Prep work has been completed and paving starts today on 27 separate segments, the largest of which is Washington st. from Palm to Vernier, requiring 907 tons of asphaltic cement. In all, 8,617 tons of asphaltic cement will be laid. V.R. Dennis Co. is contractor.

Medically Impaired Drivers May Get Better DMV Shake

A study report on the process used by the department of Motor Vehicles to license medically impaired drivers has been completed and submitted to the legislature by DMV Director Doris V. Alexis for consideration and possible legislative action.

The 375-page report was

Small Effect Seen In Costly Control Of SDG&E Plants

San Diego Gas & Electric has charged that newly proposed changes in air quality regulations for the San Diego area could add more than $59 million per year to the bills of electric customers.

Jack E. Thomas, vice president-elect, said most of the cost would be associated with meeting a proposed requirement calling for a 75 per cent reduction in particulate emissions from power plants and a 65 per cent reduction in oxides of nitrogen from individual boilers.

SDG&E spent approximately $7 million several years ago to meet Air Pollution Control Board boiler emission standards, which were the most stringent of any in the country.

Thomas noted that power plants contribute approximately 14 per cent of the oxides of nitrogen in the San Diego air basin while automobiles contribute approximately 72 per cent.

He said studies indicate that it will cost from $59 million to $179 million to achieve the additional reduction of oxides of nitrogen from power plants.

"If the people of the San Diego region are willing to accept the burden of the cost to achieve that objective, we will make every effort to see that their wishes are carried out," Thomas said.

"It does not appear to us to be cost effective, however, to spend that amount of money to control only a small part of the overall problem."

"The government agencies involved in revising the air quality strategies certainly should be aware of the cost burden that compliance with this requirement will place on SDG&E customers."

Thomas said he hoped that the Comprehensive Planning Organization (CPO), and the Air Pollution Control District (ACPD), who together formulated the new air quality strategies, would re-evaluate their positions on the NOx control requirement and revise it so that SDG&E ratepayers would not be unduly burdened with a non-cost effective air pollution control tactic.

compiled as a result of 1976 Senate Bill 2033, authored by Senator Alex P. Garcia, Los Angeles, to investigate whether special licensing procedures and limitations placed on physically or mentally impaired drivers are justified on traffic safety grounds, or constitute unnecessary discrimination.

Recommendations submitted by the department included greater use of license restrictions rather than revocation, modification of DMV's computer system to better review records of medically impaired drivers, and greater consideration of an applicant's past driving record in making licensing decisions.

The report also recommends further clarification of guidelines for determining licensing decisions, clarification of an applicant's right to due process, a rewrite of department hearing, interview and re-examination notices in a more understandable and less threatening style, and expanded use of Type I probation, which does not require periodic progress reports on the medical condition of the applicant.

An advisory committee to the DMV staff took issue with the report recommendations, however, and submitted separate recommendations asking for repeal of Section 410 of the Health and Safety Code and subsections of the California Vehicle Code, which make specific reference to conditions which result in recurrent episodes of marked confusion or lapse of consciousness.

Section 410 of the Health and Safety Code establishes the procedure to be followed by medical doctors in reporting to the local health officer those patients who suffer from recurrent lapse of consciousness. The county health officer must then report to the State Department of Health, who in turn reports the case to DMV.

Disagreement between the advisory committee and department personnel centered on the apparent belief of the advisory committee that specific reference to conditions causing "lapse of consciousness" was unnecessarily discriminatory, and that the accident record of physically or mentally impaired drivers — compared to other known risk groups — did not merit the department's $1.9 million expenditure to operate the licensing control program for impaired drivers.

The committee further recommended that savings which would result from the program reduction be transferred to programs that would have a more direct impact in traffic safety.

Council to Ban Skateboards On Sidewalks Along Broadway

Lemon Grove's City Council looked at two types of Broadway traffic at its Monday night meeting — auto and skateboard.

Skateboard control posed no great problem. Council banned it in the downtown business section. Councilmen had expressed fear in meetings past that youngsters riding skateboards could be propelled through plate-glass show windows resulting in serious injury to themselves. Some crashes in which the glass did not break have been noted by shopkeepers in the past.

After the second reading of the ordinance at the next council meeting, skateboarding in the Broadway business district becomes illegal.

Planning Post Open

The deadline for applications for those who wish to serve on the Lemon Grove Planning Commission has been extended to October 24.

A single vacancy exists on the prestigious 5-person commission which oversees all zoning matters. There is no pay.

Those who wish to apply may call City Hall at 464-6934.

Vehicular traffic concern was more complex. A study presented by Manuel Puentes, a traffic engineer for the Auto Club of S. California, showed that traffic accidents along Broadway between Imperial and Kempf had been reduced considerably since the installation of parallel parking control curbs. Using a time-lapse movie, he noted, to no one's surprise, that traffic had "increased significantly" on Broadway during the past 5 years (now 21,000 vehicles daily). And from the audience he learned that the traffic signals at Broadway and Imperial were "overlong" resulting in temper displays by motorists held back by the red light while no cross traffic existed for seemingly long periods.

Puentes said improvement was needed for better circulation of traffic; that there were sufficient parking spaces to provide easy access to shoppers' destinations, and that concern should be shown for acquiring public parking in areas south of Broadway.

The Auto Club study was provided to council at no cost. Council is yet to decide whether or not to spend $10,000 for an engineering study on how to do what on Broadway.

In another matter which attracted considerable discussion was the first look at a proposed ordinance defining "temporary occupancy." City manager Jack Shelver explained that it was necessary to have an understandable definition so as to distinguish between apartments and motels.

Apartment complexes, he noted, must provide 1½ parking spaces a unit. Motels need but 1. Apartments are not allowed in commercial zones without a special use permit and must pay park land dedication fees.

Wilson's Bill Increases Benefits to Survivors

Rep. Bob Wilson announced that President Carter approved and has signed into law his bill making major changes to the armed forces Survivor Benefit Plan.

Wilson's bill, called the Uniformed Services Survivors' Benefits Amendment of 1978, was signed by the President on September 30.

For widows under the Retired Servicemen's Family Protection Plan, Wilson's amendments now mean a raise equal to the increase in cost-of-living since 1972 — more than 66 per cent.

The bill also calls for twice-yearly cost-of-living increases for such widows in the future. Also included in Wilson's legislation are provisions to:

— continue the benefits of RSFP for widows who remarry after age 60.

— reinstate SBP for widows who remarry after age 60 and thus lose their Dependency and Indemnity Compensation benefits.

eliminate the Social Security offset in SBP for widows who are working and not receiving Social Security benefits.

The Wilson Amendment also establishes a Survivor Benefit Plan for Reservists who have earned enough points for retirement, but have not reached age 60, the age at which they can begin drawing Reserve pay.

Shelver also noted that Dial-A-Ride would be introduced in Lemon Grove after January 1 (State Transportation Funds). Paramedic service is approximately 5 months away, and that the City's street resurfacing ($195,000) project was under way.

The City's budget (roughly $1,500,000), revised to reflect a salary and classification plan as well as a salary agreement with Lemon Grove Firefighters, was approved.

Park Work Completed

Emergency work has been completed on two projects in San Diego County.

$19,500 was spent on the Goodland Acres project, located in Goodland Acres Park in Spring Valley, repairing damages caused by the heavy rains earlier this year.

Restoration involved installing pipe and wire revetment backfilled with rock to prevent the banks from eroding in the parkland. The repairs will stabilize and protect the banks from future storms.

Re-election Candidate Nov. 7

Low Appeals Prove Efficiency, Assessor Williams Claims

E. C. "Chuck" Williams, County Assessor, said this week that his campaign for re-election was running later than he intended because he had been out of town on personal business and returned with a virus infection which kept him away from work for an additional week.

"My campaign is in good shape now, though," he said. "We have some radio and television spots, plus some mailers and newspaper advertisements already in the mill. I'm using them to explain the efficient function of the assessor's office."

"Most people think that we operate solely to watch over the changing value of property. More precisely, we spend much of our effort making sure that property owners aren't being overtaxed and explaining the application of Proposition 13."

"County spending shows up in the tax rate, with which we have nothing to do. I, as most others, feel that taxes are too high. But it is spending that causes the tax cost to rise," he said.

About his opponent, Barbara Hutchinson, Williams said that he had not met her nor talked to her about her objectives.

"All I know about her is what I read in the newspapers and I was aghast!"

The SAN DIEGO UNION reported a 1970 tax evasion charge against her that she failed to report more than $188,000 in "swindle income" gained in obtained from investors between 1963 and 1965.

The UNION said that Hutchinson had told federal investigators that she was declared mentally incompetent in 1970 on 12 counts alleging evasion of taxes, preparation of false returns and not filing a return in 1960.

She failed to return telephone calls initiated by this newspaper.

Williams said that a record low number of assessment appeals had been filed — about 1,000 — prior to the appeal deadline of October 2.

"That's proof that S.D. County led the state in proper implementation of Proposition 13," Williams said.

It was the lowest number since 1973.

"In the short period of about 6 weeks, we changed the values on more than 532,000 parcels of San Diego property. This, coupled with the record low number of appeals (L.A., Orange and San Bernardino counties had an estimated 400 percent increase in appeals) is proof that the Assessor's office in San Diego is efficient in its assessment procedures and is operated with a dedicated, professional staff," he said.

It also reported that at her probation revocation hearing she testified that she had attempted to commit suicide.

Also, the newspaper reported, Hutchinson received $212 a month Social Security benefit under the program for Aid to the Totally Disabled from

SD Bishop Praises New Pope For Anti-Communist Stands

The Most Rev. Leo T. Maher, Bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese covering San Diego and Imperial counties, has issued the following statement concerning this week's election of Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland as Pope John Paul II:

"Pope John Paul II's selection as Supreme Pontiff, the successor of Peter as Pastor of the Whole Church, gives new emphasis to the universality of the Church, focuses attention on freedom of religion and social justice.

"As a prelate in Poland he has given strong leadership against the evils of atheistic communism and has proclaimed with the same strength social justice for all in promoting human rights.

"The Church has a shepherd of great moral strength and his leadership will be felt in all facets of life. Certainly unity will be acclaimed by his presence and his words, and nations shall look to him, as will peoples of all faiths, to find a solution to the problems that face mankind in our time.

"It is fortunate that he has visited America, spoke at the Eucharistic Congress and is fluent in English. He therefore will appreciate the American people and their problems.

"The Church has been blessed with his election and his presence, and we rejoice with God's goodness to all of us and express our gratitude and thanksgiving for his leadership."

Pope John Paul II was born in Wadowice, Poland, on May 18, 1920. During World War II, his studies for the priesthood were interrupted whereupon he worked as a laborer in a quarry and chemical factory.

L.G. Church Festival Slated for Weekend

The Women's Fellowship of the Lemon Grove Congregational United Church of Christ will hold their annual Autumn Festival Friday and Saturday: 2-10 a.m. Friday and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday.

Highlights of the Festival will be the Christmas Boutique, home baked goodies booth, plant table and the usual rummage table featuring many items "impossible to live without."

A $3 ham dinner will be served from 4:30-7 p.m. Friday. Children under 10, $1.50. A limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

Lunch will be served Saturday by the Men's Fellowship, beginning at 11:30.

The public is invited to come, eat, browse, chat, or just sit for a spell.

Judge Bein on Program

Richard Bein, incumbent El Cajon Municipal Court judge, will appear at a candidates' day meeting sponsored by the Stamp Out Crime Crusade, in the San Diego Gas & Electric Co. auditorium at 101 Ash st., from 1 to 3 p.m., Saturday.

Thirteen states now have legal lotteries, according to the National Assn. of State Lotteries.

There's An Answer!

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Bored or bashful?

Q. My greatest ambition is to reach retirement so I can move to the country to raise animals and keep bees. I would enjoy that and not have to contend with so many people. I must be one of the most shy people in the world. Can a person's attitude toward life turn negative if he has a job that no longer stimulates him? Or can one become negative if one is insecure and must force himself to put on a good face in public? Please help me!

A. Of course shyness is a painful mental attitude. And it can, indeed, result in negative attitudes.

Whether we like it or not we cannot live in a vacuum. To run off to the country and raise animals and keep bees is no solution. Even there you would run into people.

So the best thing to do is find new excitement in your job, overcome that shyness and find satisfaction in normal human relations. It isn't easy, but it is not impossible. It might help you to know that deep inside many of the people with whom you associate are as shy as you are.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet, "Enthusiasm," which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Hoping he'll end affair

Q. I just can't believe my husband is having this affair. It is with a woman 10 years younger than him and not of good taste. He beats me all the time over her. I have been in emergency rooms from beatings more than once. I know I should leave him, but it's hard when you love someone and have been married 33 years. You try to tell yourself he will quit. I need help.

A. Your husband seems to evidence an unconscious desire to dominate. One thing is sure. You have no reason to allow him to beat you. Stand up to him but don't mention or discuss the other woman. Be above that in your attitude.

Perhaps if you were more of a strong woman he might quit running around. Be controlled, even aloof, and keep a good home. Try being a diffferent kind of person. It will astonish him!

What can we do for our parents?

Q. I am 22 years old and do not live at home. Three years ago my mom and dad were divorced. Mom wouldn't try to understand what was going wrong in their marriage. She only blamed him—totally. Now he is married again, and Mom has forbidden us to even mention his wife's name or to visit our dad. She has forced us children to side with her because we are "all she has."

She wants us to help her put Dad in jail for being in arrears in payments, but we don't want to hurt him. He gave her everything, plus the house, but she wants him to pay with his life. What can we do for our parents?

A. The answer is to love both your parents and never be unfair to either one. Do not let your mother's possessive attitude ruin your life. And certainly do not help her avenge herself upon your father.

Try to encourage her to forget the past and live her life from now on without recrimination.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564. If you would like to talk directly with a Prayer Partner, call Prayer Line (212) 532-2700. Reduced long-distance rates are in effect nights and weekends.

Church Sale Listed

The Women's Missionary Society of the Skyline Wesleyan Church will present the 15th annual "Harvest of Talents" Friday, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. and 5 p.m.-8 p.m. in the Centre at 1345 Skyline dr., Lemon Grove.

This year's theme is "A Home in the Country," featuring handmade gifts and Christmas decorations, as well as a large array of plants, toys, items, clothing, and rummage goods. Lunch and snack items are also available.

All proceeds go to missions.

Handel Program Set

Choral and instrumental music of Handel and Purcell will be performed by choir, soloists and orchestra Sunday, November 12 at All Souls' Episcopal Church, 1475 Catalina blvd., in San Diego.

The program, directed by Hollace Koman, is at 8 p.m. and features the San Diego premiere of George Frederick Handel's "Dixit Dominus," a musical setting of Psalm 110.

Volunteer Drivers Wanted

Volunteer drivers are being recruited by Allied Community Services to escort home-bound senior citizens, who are recipients of Homemaker Services, on shopping trips for groceries, drugs and department stores.

Drivers will be awarded a $3 stipend for each trip to cover the cost of gas.

To qualify, volunteers must be over age 18, with a California drivers license, and proof of auto insurance.

To apply, call June DeHaven at 280-3040, ext. 70.

WANNA BUY A QUILT? — Marlene Ketell, left, and Thelma Lewis, members of the Spring Valley Woman's Club, add some last-minute touches to the double-size, comforter-style quilt which will be on display at the club's friendship bazaar next Wednesday. The quilt, to be auctioned off Dec. 13, was handmade over four months by Mrs. Ketell.

SV' Women to Sponsor 'Friendship Bazaar'

The Spring Valley Woman's Club and its evening section, "Junta de la Noche," will present a "friendship bazaar" beginning at 10 a.m. next Wednesday at Friends Church, Kenwood and Bancroft drs. in Spring Valley.

Luncheon will be available at 1:30 a.m.

Gourmet food items, pies, cakes, candies, plants, pillows, dolls and needlework, Christmas boutique items, crafts and jewelry will be sold to benefit the club's programs for scholarships, youth and senior citizens.

A hand-made, double-size, comforter-style quilt, the handiwork of club member Marlene Ketell, will be on display at the bazaar and will be auctioned off December 13 at the church. The auction will be at 3 p.m. on that date, with a $1 a person donation asked of participants.

Thelma Lewis is chairwoman for the friendship bazaar.

This Week's RECIPE

Mexican Fried Eggs

For fun and practicality serve Eggs Fiesta at your next festive breakfast, brunch or lunch. Just top crisp corn tortillas with sunny fried eggs, a zippy hot sauce and cool, colorful avocados for this Mexican-inspired entree.

Eggs Fiesta

- 1 dozen corn tortillas
- ½ cup cooking oil
- 1 8-ounce can hot sauce or enchilada sauce
- 1 avocado, seeded and peeled
- ¾ cup butter, divided
- 8 eggs
- Salt and pepper
- ½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In 10-inch skillet fry tortillas, one at a time, in hot oil over medium heat until hot but not brown, about 2 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper and place on aluminum foil. When all tortillas are fried, seal foil and keep warm in a pre-heated 300-degree oven.

Heat sauce in a small saucepan, keep warm. Slice avocado into 16 slices. Heat 2 tablespoons butter in 10-inch skillet until hot enough to sizzle a drop of water.

Break and slip four of the eggs, one at a time, into skillet. Reduce heat immediately, cook slowly to desired degree of doneness, turning eggs once. Repeat with remaining butter and eggs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

To serve, place a fried egg on each tortilla, top with 1 tablespoon heated sauce and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon shredded cheese. Arrange two avocado slices on side. Allow two egg-topped tortillas per serving. Serve with extra tortillas spread with butter.

Neighborhood Watch Forum Set for Sat.

San Diego District 25, California Federation of Women's Clubs and the Stamp Out Crime Council are cooperating with law enforcement agencies and other service organizations to sponsor a Neighborhood Watch Forum on Saturday, 9 a.m.-3 p.m., in the auditorium of the S.D. Gas & Electric Co., 101 Ash st., downtown. The registration is $2 a person or $5 including lunch. The luncheon speaker will be TV's Dodge Sheriff Joe Higgins now the National Safety Sheriff.

The program is planned to illustrate ways to begin a neighborhood watch program and to keep these programs alive, creative, and valuable once they are started. Programs called Neighbors on Watch, Neighborhood Awareness, Neighborhood Alert or something else, can be improved by the tips and information offered Saturday.

Candidates for Judge have been invited to attend the afternoon session which will include an audience question and answer period.

Masked Party Planned

Mission Valley Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and Auxiliary 3787 plan a Masquerade Costume Ball for Halloween on Friday, October 27. Prior to the festivities a fish dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded for best costumes. For reservations, call 583-2426.

Girl Named Art Editor

THE PAWPRINT, campus newspaper of California State College, San Bernardino, has named Jana Ondrechen as Art Editor. She is an art major and an honor student.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ondrechen of Lemon Grove, and is a graduate of Mt. Miguel High school.

2 Get Highest 4-H Award

Two area 4-H'ers from more than 100,000 California members, were among 18 named to the Diamond Star team — 4-H's highest award. Winners were announced from 4-H headquarters in Berkeley.

The 2 are Sheri Lynn Snively, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Snively of Jamul and Lisa Waters, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Walters of Otay Mesa.

Sheri is a 9th-year 4-H member of the Jamul Chaparrals 4-H club. She recently was graduated from Valhalla High School and now attends UCSD, leaning toward a career in food technology and science.

Sheri Lynn Snively

She has been S.D. County All-Star, Citizenship Delegate to Washington in 1976, and state representative to the 13-Western States Community Pride conference.

She is also recipient of 5 scholarships and was one of the top 5 students at Valhalla, a Mother Goose Parade Princess and State Future Home-maker of America officer.

Lisa is a 7th year 4-H member and member of the Siempre Viva 4-H club, and a senior at Hilltop High School.

Lisa Waters

She is involved in a 4-H program by which she intends to become a recreational therapist. She has just been named the California Urban 4-H Leadership winner, and is recipient of Santa Fe $600 scholarship.

A luncheon was given by the California Bankers Assn. and the 4-H Co-Operative Extension Service honoring the 2 girls on October 3 at the Reuben E. Lee in S.D. Harbor. Citations were given by representatives of State Sen. James Mills and 2nd District County Supervisor Lucille Moore.

Clean-Air Kites Sponsored By SD Lung Association

Kites designed strictly for clean-air flying will be under construction this month in area 7th through 9th grade art classrooms. The Kite Project, sponsored by the local Christmas Seal Association in cooperation with the California Art Education Association and the State Board of Education, is intended to remind youngsters that clean air is valuable.

Jeanette Baptiste, president of the Lung Association of San Diego and Imperial Counties said that the Lung Association, charged with controlling and preventing lung disease, has long been active in air conservation efforts.

"It is most important that children learn to value air quality so they will protect it as adults," she said. "The Kite Project is one way to call students' attention to the importance of clean air in recreation, esthetics and good health. The art project also reinforces air conservation information students may have heard in classroom lectures."

Ms. Baptiste added that similar Kite Projects are being undertaken throughout the state. Later this fall, a panel of judges representing the Lung Association, the California Art Education Association and the Board of Education will select a kite to represent the geographical area served by each of California's 21 Lung Associations. The children and their kites will then be invited to Disneyland on December 9 to highlight "Lung Awareness Week." December 2-9, a statewide celebration of children's lungs. At Disneyland, the name of the child and kite selected to represent the state will be announced.

According to Ms. Baptiste, the Kite Project is just one of several air conservation educational programs available to schools. For more information, teachers may contact the Christmas Seal Association at 297-3901.

Halloween Bags For Youngsters At CdO Restaurant

When Halloween goblins knock on doors of Spring Valley residents later this month, don't be surprised if they're carrying trick or treat bags from a Carl's Jr. Restaurant.

As part of a statewide promotion, the chain is giving away brightly colored plastic bags printed with Halloween safety tips.

Manager Donna Bond at the Carl's Jr. in Casa De Oro on Campo rd, invites all youngsters in the area to visit the restaurant to receive their free trick or treat bags. "It is our hope that through the Halloween Safety Program we will be able to more fully educate children for a safe and happy Halloween," a firm spokesman said.

As an extension of the Halloween Safety Program, Carl Karcher Enterprises, owners and operators of the restaurant chain, has compiled a safety kit for use by teachers of elementary school students that will educationally reinforce rules for an accident-free holiday.

By connecting dots, doing word puzzles, choosing multiple choice answers and a multitude of other methods geared toward each grade's age range, children will be reminded to take a flashlight with them on their haunts, to look both ways before crossing the street, to wear light colored clothing and other common sense practices for Halloween night.

Children successfully completing the program with their teachers will receive Halloween Safety Certificates.

New Funding to Aid East County U-WAY

3 United Way agencies serving specific East County needs have been selected to receive new "enhancement grants" from United Way of San Diego County.

They are among 14 agencies throughout the county selected to share in a special fund of $99,223.

It marks the first application of United Way's recently announced Priorities Plan. The nine-month grants are in addition to the agencies' base allocations for fiscal year 1978-79. The grants, available to United Way member agencies only, have been established to enhance programming.

The 3 agencies which received additional funding to meet specific East County needs are:

— Salvation Army Corps Community Center, El Cajon, $3,150, for counseling and temporary financial assistance to persons needing emergency housing.

— Speech, Hearing and Neuropsychological Center, $6,000, for hearing loss identification service to senior citizens in east and South Counties.

— Big Sister League, $4,500, for emergency shelter for women and children from East and South Counties.

Other United Way agencies receiving enhancement grants for special programming, and sums they received, are Alpha Project, $9,000; Barrio Station, $9,000; Bayside Settlement House, $3,300; Boys' Club of Fallbrook, $9,000; Cedar Community Center, $4,138.

Also Child Guidance Clinic, $9,000; Exploring Family School, $3,000; Family Service Association, $9,000; North County Armed Services YMCA, $7,135; Visiting Nurses' Association / Home-maker Services, $9,000, and YMCA of San Diego and San Diego County (Copley Branch), $9,000.

To select the 14 agencies which received the initial "enhancement grants," 50 proposals totaling $455,942 were received by 8 volunteer panels, the United Way allocations committee and by the United Way's PAR Council (Planning, Allocations and Research).

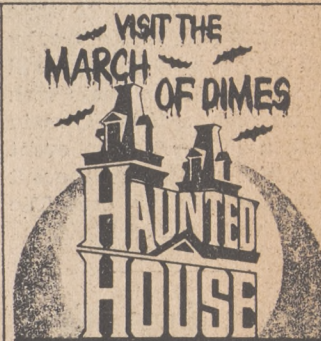

Key criteria used in rating the proposals included:

— program objectives relating to the priority needs of a specific district;

— program activities which are comprehensive and preventative in nature, and — clear and measurable objectives.

The grants, totaling $435,000, start January 1.

Wolfgang, Ferkel Due for 'Outlaw' Tests at S. Bay

Doug Wolfgang, a Lincoln, Neb., driver who is approaching his 100th career win, and Buckeye barnstormer Rick Ferkel, who has captured more than 80 main events, are the latest to file entries in the World of Outlaws sprint car championships set for South Bay Park's Speedway 117 Sunday.

Wolfgang's phenomenal success includes a record 445 triumphs achieved in 1977. He has posted wins at the Knoxville Nationals and the Dirt Cup at Skagit, Wash., as well as USAC victories at Kansas City and the Florida Winter Nationals.

Ferkel, the veteran of Pindlay, Ohio, is running second to points leader Steve Kinser of Bloomington, Indiana, who already has filed an entry.

Among his 28 wins this season include those at Florida, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, South Dakota and California.

The South Bay program with posted awards totaling $10,755, will begin with time trials at 5 p.m. and a trophy dash at 7 p.m. The card will include four 10-lap heats with 10 cars each, a 10-lap C main event, a 15-lap B main event and a 24-car, 30-lap main event on the half-mile dirt oval. The winner will receive $2,000.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

You can't keep a good man down. Even when his enemies consider him to be one of the "disturbing" folks in the sports reporting dodge.

And while he may bother some of the "purists" of the trade, more folks than not are happy to learn that Jerry Gross is coming back on the air with his own brand of "telling it like it is."

There was a time when the San Diego airways had a handful of hard hitting reporters calling shots as they saw the sports of the day. But somehow the voices of distraction were stifled and Al Couppee, Rod Page and Jerry Gross were kind of brushed into the woodwork.

And that was a shame and our loss. There were a few others, of course, but those three were the main body of public disenchantment with the all-powerful establishment of high school, college and professional sports entrepreneurs.

More coaches, athletic directors and general managers believe it is the duty of sports writers to promote the home team than leaves from the trees fall on autumn grass.

A goodly number of the current crop of television sports actors go along with that idea and give lip service to nearly everything team spoke-folk hand out.

It wasn't that way with Couppee, Page, Gross and company. A lot of folks didn't like the way they kept hammering away at what they considered injustices in the sports world. Hell, a lot of folks just plain didn't like them. As a matter of fact, they don't get along all that well among themselves.

But the important factor was, they protected the people's right to know. They asked questions. They dug for information and reported what they found.

Couppee was the dean of the electronic sports crowd and his telecasts were really works of art. He got in all the scores, and gave timely promos to everybody from Junior Golf, to local bowling, to the roller derby. Everybody got a little bit.

That took work. "Anybody can write a good 15-minute sports show," he used to thunder at his dim-witted assistant. "It takes hard work to get out the same information in a five-minute sports show."

But five minutes was all there was and he saw to it everything got in and everybody got their shots.

Now-a-days you get scores, a filmed interview and some ungifted opinions between the opening and closing "happy talk" intros.

Page still has his "commentaries" going, but he's into making commercials now and some of the old zeal is missing from his wild days. In his younger years, Rod ran up something like a $400 taxi bill jumping around town for one month covering stories. It takes talent and guts to do things like that. Rod has plenty of both.

Jerry Gross is rated by some as his own worst enemy. Others call him a genius. He's probably somewhere in the middle.

He does tend to stir up the old pot and make people do things they really don't like to do, like think.

There was a time, before KFMB-TV went to amateur sports reporting, that Gross awarded a "banana of the week" to those who ran afoul of his displeasure. I thought it was a great idea. But those days are gone.

Gross will be on the tube over XETV, Channel Six at 11:30 on Saturdays beginning Oct. 21, with a weekly sports in review format.

He says he'll do pro, college, amateur, high school and, when the deed is worth the telling military sports, complete with live interviews, film clips and video tape. This week he honors Morse H.S.

It seems to lack a certain amount of originality, but he's going to call it the "Jerry Gross on Sports" show. You can't have everything.

Jerry will tip off the Saturday football happenings on all the other channels and chances are he'll have a rather interesting, probably noteworthy, undoubtedly opinionated, and enoyably controversial show that will certainly be remembered after the day's game has passed into history.

He may not always be right. And he probably won't always be wrong. But he certainly will be one helluva lot more interesting than most of what passes for sports on the local airways these days.

PHL Hawks Sign Bloom, Heberton

The San Diego Hawks have signed a former Boston Bruins' first round draft selection, and a goaltender who was a first team All-Star last season in the Pacific Hockey League. The players are center-leftwing Mike Bloom, and goalie Clay Heberton.

Bloom, 6'3", 205 pounds, played two seasons for the San Diego Gulls after being chosen 16th overall in the NHL's 1972 amateur draft.

In 1974 the Washington Capitals acquired Bloom's rights from Boston, but traded him to Detroit in 1975. He is a veteran of 200 NHL games, though only 26, and last season led team scoring and was third in the Central Hockey League while with Detroit's farm team in Kansas City.

"I am looking forward to playing in San Diego again," Bloom said. "I've lived here in the off-season for 6 years, acquired my real estate license and a lot of friends, and I know we can make it work."

Hawk coach Ron Ingram likes Bloom's aggressive style of play. Bloom picked up close to 200 minutes in penalties last season and many will recall his riotous bout at the Sports Arena several years ago with the late Bob Gassoff.

Clay Heberton, who is the and onetime Portland Buckaroo Andy, is back for a second season in San Diego. The 5' 10", 200 pound goalie was drafted 7th by Vancouver in 1973 and played a season in Europe before catching on in the WHA with Phoenix.

Though his club was definitely weak, Heberton caught the eyes of All-Star voters and was chosen number one in goal in the PHL last spring.

The Hawks have already signed centers Ray Adduono and Bob Sauve, as well as All-Star defenseman Bill Horton.

The Hawks begin training camp October 23 at the El Cajon Ice Palace, play their first game November 9 in Spokane and their home opener is set for November 15 at the Sports Arena. Season ticket sales are in progress.

The Spring Valley Park and Recreation Board has approved the continuation of their youth basketball program for the season. The program will be offered jointly with the Davis YMCA and will affiliate with YBA, a national program developed by the YMCA and the NBA Players' Association.

"Business and service clubs are being invited to underwrite sponsorship of the league to help offset the loss of property tax revenue due to Proposition 13," said Patti Simpson, president of the board.

"We have had strong support from our sponsors in the past and hope to be able to use these funds to keep the cost of the program down," she said.

Fingers is Champ 1978 Reliever

San Diego relief ace Rollie Fingers, who tied Clay Carroll's National League record of 37 saves, is the 1978 National League winner in the Rolaids Relief Man awards competition. He also won this award last year.

The Cincinnati Reds will receive the team award as the major league's best bullpen this past season.

Fingers, whose 6-13 won-loss record and remarkable save total gave him a total of 73 points, narrowly defeated Pittsburgh standout Kent Tekulve (71 points) for the honors.

Tekulve, the heart of the Pirate bullpen all season long, compiled an 8-7 mark with 31 saves. Doug Bair of the Reds was third with 64 points (7-6, 28 saves), Bruce Sutter of Chicago, fourth, with 60 (8-10, 27), Atlanta's Gene Garber, fifth, with 55 (5-5, 25). (Two points are awarded for each relief win and each save, less one point for each loss).

The Reds who will accept the first team trophy in the Rolaids program, were led by Bair, Dave Tomlin (25 points, 9-1, 4 saves), Pedro Borbon (22 points, 8-2, 4 saves) and Manny Sarmiento (22 points, 8-5, 5 saves). As a team they finished with 38 wins, 15 losses and 46 saves for 153 points, 26 points better than their nearest rival.

Clippers, Up From Scratch, Are Better Than Record Shows

By Max Goodwin

San Diego's NBA Clippers are in Chicago for a Friday night game with the Bulls then on to Indiana Saturday for the Pacers fray.

The Clippers return to the confines of the S.D. Sports Arena next week for a pair of games hosting the L.A. Lakers on Tuesday and the Milwaukee Bucks Wednesday.

There is but one other home game on the October schedule, that being with the Seattle Sonics on Sunday, October 29.

The Clippers have an even dozen games at home during the 2 months 'til the end of the year. 8 of them are in November leaving only a 4-game home schedule for December. Of the 12, only 5 are week-end games. January is completely devoid of week-end games with only 5 games scheduled and those on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

There is much to be desired in the Clippers' schedule this season but it will be recalled that the team was set for San Diego not much earlier than some teams were getting ready for pre-season exhibition games. The Clippers had time but for 2 exhibition games before opening the season at Phoenix, then on to Golden State. The San Diego home game opening, just 4 days ago shows how much organizing can be done in a short time. Each of the first 3 games showed team improvement.

Then, on the 4th game, came the Clippers first win — 99-94 against the Chicago Bulls.

There'll be ups and downs following, but the franchise is solid, the management is good, the coaching is splendid and the players are far better than a new franchise should expect.

True, the team didn't start from scratch, but the team that was floored at the Sports Arena Sunday night had only 3 players who were part of the Buffalo franchise last year.

They improved each of the first 3 games and give promise of offering some of the most exciting basketball the city has ever had. There are good seats available now.

Twin Devils Wrestlers To Star Tues.

At first they couldn't believe it.

Fans attending the Tuesday night professional wrestling matches at the Coliseum believed that the Twin Devils were the same person. That one wrestler retired to the dressing room and returned later refreshed.

But Tuesday night Twin Devil no. 2 rushed from the dressing room to give aid to Twin Devil no. 1. There was not an iota of difference between them. Fans, in disbelief, broke out cameras to record for posterity.

Yes, Herman, there are 2. One—TD no. 1—or is it no. 2, meets Pete Morales in a lumberjack match. The two will be bound together by a 6-foot length of lumberjack's rope.

The other Twin Devil appears as one of the luminaries of an American Tag Title bout with Colliath as his partner. They challenge Black Gordman and Hector Guererro for the crown.

A newcomer to the ring here is Bad, Bad Leroy Brown who weighs 350 pounds. His opponent is Don Diamond.

The opener matches Pak Choo with GO.

The card is to start at 7:30 again after having been started later due to conflict with the World Series. The Coliseum is at 15th and E sts., downtown.

Trout Planted in Cuyamaca

Trout plants for September amounted to 4,800 pounds at Lake Cuyamaca with some 4 to 5 pound fish stocked. The trout are evenly dispersed throughout the lake although boat fishing near the log boom remains a favorite spot.

Shore fishing from the rock dike and near the launching ramp has been productive for trout and catfish.

Cooler October weather should afford continued excellent trout fishing. All normal trout bait and spinners are proving equally effective. Concentrations of bluegill and bass are found along the shore line, and many stringers of bluegill, with some over a pound, have been taken.

Cuyamaca College

Final enrollment figures for Cuyamaca College show that 1,959 students are enrolled for the Fall Semester.

Paul Boatner, Director of Admissions and Records for the college, said the figures reflect a larger enrollment than anticipated.

Expansion of the college's general education program in the Spring Semester will increase the availability of classes and result in a substantially higher full-time enrollment, he said.

Chargers in Detroit; Bengals Here Nov. 5

The Chargers lost 28-21 to the Miami Dolphins last week but few people could complain about the tone of the game. It was entertaining.

Sure, it would have been more entertaining if the team had won but the errors which led to a couple of opponents' touchdowns appeared to be a result of anxiety. The team was obviously anxious to win. And they were in the game most of the way.

So the Chargers, now 2-5, head toward Detroit where they will play in the Silverdome home of the Lions. The Lions, 1-6, have lost their last 5 games. Both teams are hungry.

The Lions defeated the Chargers in Tiger Stadium 34-20 in 1972 and in the Silverdome in 1977.

The Lions are in their worst season since 1959 when the team lost 5 of its first 6 games. Head Lions coach Monte Clark coached San Francisco to an 8-6 record in 1976, his only other season as head coach. Included in the losses was a 13-7 defeat in overtime to the Chargers in San Diego Stadium.

Lydell Mitchell, becoming more productive each week, handled the ball 28 times and gained 116 yards in a 23-0 victory over Denver 2 weeks ago, rushed 77 yards in 19 carries and scored 2 touchdowns and caught 6 passes for 64 yards against Miami. He also accounted for 6 first downs. His 2-game totals: 38 rushes, 142 yards, 2 touchdowns; 15 catches, 115 yards, 1 touchdown, 12 first downs. He ranks 3rd in the AFC with 28 pass receptions.

KSDO (1130) begins coverage with Pat Curran's NFL Weekend at 7:45 a.m. followed by Charger Talk and the Don Coryell Show. Charger Talk resumes after the Lockerroom Show following the game. The game will be telecast on Ch. 39 at 10.

Tickets are available now for the Cincinnati Bengals game November 5 at the Stadium 1 p.m.

Severely Wounded Aztecs Face Rising Tigers Sat.

And who do the Aztecs face at the Stadium Saturday?

Only the University of Pacific Tigers.

What is the Tigers' record so far this year?

Only 6 straight PACC games and a 3-0 league record.

How do the Aztecs look? Injured. Badly!

Here is the Blue Cross summary:

C—starter Tedd Davis (shoulder) out for season

T—starter Kevin Fidel (leg) questionable

TE — Alternating starter Donnie Glenn (leg) out for season

SE — 2 of 3 alternating players. Gary Snell (shoulder) out for season; Tim Johnson (ankle) out 2 weeks

QB — Quarterback Mark Halda (wrist) status undetermined

TB—Starter Mike Hill (shoulder sprain) 3 weeks

FB—Alternate Curtis Bledsoe (knee) 2 more weeks

LB—Starter Greg Schneider (shoulder) out for season

LB—Starter Ron Morehouse (broken thumb) questionable

LB—Starter Scott Carter (ankle) out for 2 weeks

DB—Strong safety Steve Jorge (thigh contusions) doubtful

As decimated as they are, the Aztecs will make an appearance Saturday at 7:30 at the Stadium. They'll need all the fan support they can get.

Invitations are in the mail to some 500 golfers for the 5th Annual Rancho San Diego "Tee Off For Tots" Golf Tournament.

The annual sports event benefits the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve 1978 Toys For Tots campaign, said Frank Parks, tournament chairman and Rancho San Diego general manager.

Parks said that the tournament will be held at Cottonwood Country Club in Rancho San Diego, Friday, November 17, starting at 10:15 a.m., sharp. The club is located on Willow Glen Drive, 4 miles east of Lemon Grove.

Guests will include ranking officers of the U.S. Navy, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve who will play as one member of each foursome. Major General R. C. Schultz, Commanding General,

4,000 Season Tickets Gives Lift to Sockers

Soccer season ticket sales are booming in San Diego.

Vice President-General Manager Marvin Milkes reported this week that the 4,000th season ticket had been sold for the 1979 San Diego Sockers' season.

"We got a good jump on the 1979 season by starting our sales campaign back in July when we were a hot item. It's obviously paid off. 4,000 seats is 6 times our total for '78. There is a different soccer atmosphere in the city now than it was when we first came. We've now had time to get involved in it."

Much of the recent success has been due to the Sockers

Hall of Champions Lists Sept. Winners

Some of the outstanding performances of the year were produced by San Diego area athletes during September and 5 Star-of-the-Month selections have been made by the Hall of Champions Breitbard Athletic Awards Committee.

In the group are 3 professionals and 2 amateurs. The husband-wife tandem of Jeff and Peggy Lenhart beat out a fleet of 92 rivals in rough waters off Annapolis to capture their second consecutive North American Snipe Class sailing championship.

Among the pros are Gaylord Perry and Rollie Fingers. Perry, a solid candidate for the Cy Young Award, had a 6-0 record in September, was named the National League "pitcher of the week" for the period ending September 24 and wound up the season with a 21-6 mark while attaining a career strikeout mark of 3000. Fingers, Star of the Year in 1977, accounted for 37 saves, to equal the circuit record and for the second year in a row was acclaimed the loop's top "fireman."

The other professional chosen as a Star of the Month was veteran Bill Muncy of La Mesa, who won his sixth national hydroplane racing crown, climaxing his year by setting a new world's record of 121.261 miles per hour while dominating the Jack-In-The-Box regatta on Mission Bay. That event marked his 50th triumph in individual national events, and it came just a few weeks before his 50th birthday.

'79 Thunderbird Is Door Prize at SDSU Hoop Games

S.D. State U's Athletic Department will give away a 1979 red and white Thunderbird T-RooF convertible on March 3.

Tickets will be on sale until the drawing at the Sports Arena at the basketball double-header between the SDSU women and USD and the SDSU men and Utah.

San Diego State athletes will offer tickets for a $1 donation for each ticket or $10 for 12 tickets.

Tickets are also available at Gate F at the stadium and the Aztec ticket office.

The Thunderbird can be seen at University Ford, 730 Camino Del Rio North, and at all home football and basketball games.

For tickets, call 236-6505 or go to Peterson Gym, Room 104, SDSU. All proceeds will go in support of SDSU athletics.

Lemon Grove Doctor Gets AAFP Fellowship

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Dr. Myron D. Fessler of Lemon Grove Medical Group has been named a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The degree of Fellowship may be attained in either of two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diploma status in the specialty of family practice as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title "Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians," or "FAAFP." The degree was conferred September 26 upon more than 800 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in San Francisco, California.

Bus Excursion Planned by Museum Group

An all-day bus excursion sponsored by the Covey auxiliary of the San Diego Natural History Museum October 27 will feature stops at an ancient Indian Village site near Mission San Luis Rey in Oceanside, Doan Valley in Palomar Mountain State Park, and Bates Nut Farm in Valley Center.

Martha Chapin, an authority on local Indian culture, will provide insights to a continuing archeological dig at the San Luis Rey Mission and Brother Marion will provide a tour of the Mission itself. While at Palomar Jon Olson, an astronomy instructor at Southwestern College, will relate astronomy from the native Indians point of view as well as the more modern concepts of today.

Cost of $14 for members and $16 for non-members includes a snack at the Mission and a hot lunch at Palomar State Park. Bring good walking shoes and a warm jacket.

Buses will leave the Organ Pavilion in Balboa Park at 8:45 a.m. and La Jolla Village Inn at 9:15 a.m. returning about 5:30 p.m. For reservations call the Museum 232-3821 Ext. 36.

Longer Zip Numbers Seen for Your Mail

Edwin Feulner is president of The Heritage Forum, a Washington-based public policy research organization.. His opinion voiced here points the finger of bad Post Office service relations directly at the top echelon of the Postal Service — where it rightly belongs.

By EDWIN FEULNER

After struggling for a while with a postage stamp that just wouldn't stick, I decided to go on to other things.

First, I picked up my morning newspaper. And there, on the front page, was an item: "4 More Digits to Zip Your Mail."

And in my morning mail, a new and not very encouraging report by the ACU Education and Research Institute on the troubled U.S. Postal Service.

To be honest, though it costs two-and-a-half times as much to mail a first class letter today (15 cents) as it did eight years ago when the postal service was created (6 cents then), I'm not one of those critics who considers 15 cents an outrageous price to pay to have a letter delivered either across town or across country.

But I am disturbed by the prospects of future rate increases across town or across country. ACU-ERI study projects that it may cost 36 cents to mail a letter six years from now "if the U.S. Postal Service continues its present policies . . ."

That, of course, is where the expanded zip codes are supposed to come in.

According to postal service management spokesmen, the proposed nine-digit zip code (which will make them as long as your Social Security number) will give the postal service the flexibility to assign a zip code to every city block (or the equivalent) across the country. This, in turn, would ease mail sorting, speed delivery, and help the postal service hold the line against rate increases by enabling them to introduce more sophisticated equipment into the system during the next five years.

The trouble is that according to the ACU-ERI study and other reports, the less sophisticated equipment now in operation has proved to be difficult to operate and less than reliable—producing incredible mixups in some cases.

Says the ACU-ERI: "About 40 per cent of all mail is still sorted by hand, using the method developed by Ben Franklin. The other 60 per cent is sorted mechanically, but the machines are so unreliable—rejecting or misrouting over a third of all letters—that service is more erratic than ever." One mechanized post office in Boston, for example, was reported to have sent 56 million pieces of mail to the wrong places during just one six month period.

Which makes us wonder why postal officials feel the longer zip codes and more sophisticated machinery are going to solve anything.

As a final note, I might make a twisted-logic suggestion to the post office: If nine-digit zip codes—one for every block—will improve sorting and delivery services, why not assign a zip code to every house and apartment building? Which, after all, is why we have street addresses, isn't it?

Support Sought For Prop. G

A broad-based committee in support of Proposition "G," the S.D. County spending limit proposal, is now being formed with the intent to educate and inform the citizens for the November election.

Prop. "G" approval will place a limit on government spending for San Diego County for the next 3 years, except for cost of living adjustments and requirements of law. The need for such a proposition, the organizers believe, is that while Prop. 13 put a lid on property taxes, it did not limit total government spending. Proposition "G" will. With it government is forbidden to continue expansion through the use of fees, and State and federal subsidies to replace lost property tax revenues.

"G" will reduce the number of County employees to population from 1 to 148 to 1 to 160 by 1982.

"G" will require the approval from supervisors for the funding of any new program after adoption of the annual budget.

The proposition is authored by Supervisor Jim Bates, an advocate of reducing government spending. He was joined by Supervisors Roger Hedgecock and Lee Taylor.

SDG&E has been instructed by the County of San Diego to turn off streetlights in some San Diego communities.

Your neighborhood may be affected. Here's why...and what you can do about it.

Due to budget cutbacks resulting from Proposition 13, the County is unable to fund streetlights in some unincorporated county areas. These areas include all or parts of:

Alpine	Lakeside
Borrego	Lemon Grove
Campo	Leucadia
Cardiff	Olivenhain
Eden Gardens	Otay
Encinitas	Poway
Fallbrook	Ramona
Jacumba	Rancho San Diego
Julian	Solana Beach

The County has instructed San Diego Gas & Electric Company to turn off most streetlight service to the above areas. All streetlights to be shut off will be tagged with red markers. SDG&E personnel will try to contact you, either personally or by leaving a notice at your door, explaining the turn-off of your streetlights and the options you may have about keeping your neighborhood well lit.

If the lights in your area are among the 4,000 owned by SDG&E, you and/or your neighborhood association can keep them burning by arranging personally to pay for the service. Costs to service streetlights can range from $7.44 to $17.04 per month depending on the type of pole and size of light.

We realize that paying for service to streetlights out of your own pocket isn't the optimum solution. But it is one way to continue to protect your family and your neighborhood. Unfortunately, all lights for which service is not so arranged will be turned off as the County requests.

For residents who live in areas where streetlights are County-owned, service can only be reactivated by County order.

If you'd like more information, contact one of our Energy Information Consultants at SDG&E, 232-4252, extension 1766.

Effective 11/2/78 subject to final CPUC approval.

READY FOR THE BIG SHOW — Freda Joyal, left, operator of Years of Yesterday and current president of the Antique Dealers Association of San Diego County, and Ruby Goodwin, operator of High Hope Antiques, nestle comfortably among some of the items from Years of Yesterday that'll be on display at this weekend's Antique Show and Sale in Mission Valley. Years of Yesterday and High Hope are among seven local antique dealerships set to show wares.

7 Local Dealers Show Wares

SD Antique Show To Open

One Casa de Oro and six Lemon Grove antique dealers will be among more than 50 dealers displaying their wares at this weekend's semi-annual Antique Show and Sale sponsored by the Antique Dealers Association of San Diego County.

In addition, the Casa de Oro dealer, Pegi Reisdorf of Casa de Oro Antiques, 9732 Campo rd., will speak on "Antique Jewelry" at one of six informal seminars to be presented during the weekend.

The show and sale will be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Scottish Rite Masonic Temple in Mission Valley. Hours are noon through 10 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday, noon through 6 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $1.75 per person, which also allows attendance at the seminars on various topics, which will precede the show's opening, at 10:30 and 11 a.m., each day (two seminars per day).

Local antique dealerships showing wares, besides Casa de Oro Antiques, are Antique Investments (Holdings), Ltd., 7945 Broadway, Lemon Grove, operated by Andrew Kerr; High Hope Antiques, 7921 Broadway, Lemon Grove, operated by Ruby Goodwin; Lillian's Antiques, 2046 Berry st., Lemon Grove, operated by Lillian Kerr; Pa Kerr's Country Store, 7945 Broadway, Lemon Grove, also operated by Lillian Kerr; Rick's Relics, 3340 Main st., Lemon Grove, operated by Fern and Richard Dunkel and Years of Yesterday, 7895 Broadway, Lemon Grove, operated by Freda Joyal.

Freda Joyal is also current president of the Antique Dealers Association of San Diego County.

Tomorrow's seminars, billed as "Teach-Ins," will be Bruce Hamerling, Tiffany expert and author, speaking on "Silver" and Pegi Reisdorf discussing "Antique Jewelry."

Saturday's seminars will be Marie Hood on "Oriental Antiques and Art" and Gladys Greene, show co-chairwoman, on "Small Antiques and Collectibles." Sunday's program has Manning Calhoun on "Oak Furniture" and show co-chairwoman Phyllis Carlson Brown on "Antiques as an Investment."

The seminars are a new feature of the show, said Gladys Greene, show co-chairwoman. "We wanted to share our knowledge with the rest of the community," she said. "We've found that the most satisfied collectors are the best informed. Many of our speakers have been collectors for decades."

Value of antiques shown for sale during the weekend will run into the millions of dollars.

GOP's Form California 'Fact Force'

The California Republican Party has formed a group of elected officials and public figures called "Fact Force."

The purpose of the project is to set the record straight about Jerry Brown, Mervyn Dymally and the failures of the Brown-Dymally Administration.

Co-chairmen of the project are California Republican Party Chairman Mike Montgomery, along with 3 former gubernatorial candidates, Ed Davis, Ken Maddy and Pete Wilson. They will work with members of both the State Senate and State Assembly to focus attention on the record of dismal performance of the Brown-Dymally Administration.

"We intend to point up the contradiction between the image that Jerry Brown and Mervyn Dymally want to project during this reelection campaign and the reality of the past 3½ years of mismanagement or, more correctly, no management... of the State of California," Montgomery said at the announcement of the Fact Force.

Ed Davis, former Los Angeles police chief and one of the co-chairmen for the Fact Force, suggested that people, "are logically more interested in the World Series than they are in reading everything that's written about politics, because really it becomes very dull and boring."

The Fact Force will aggressively campaign throughout the state to further their goal or, "... setting straight the deceptions of Jerry Brown and Mervyn Dymally."

Costume Ball to Benefit CHAD Health Agencies

There comes a time once a year when adults choose to escape the world of reality for the world of masquerade. That time is close at hand.

One of the biggest masquerade events in the San Diego area is the KPRI costume ball being given October 30 for the benefit of Combined Health Agencies Drive (CHAD). Proceeds of the ball will go to CHAD's 12 health agencies which support research and patient services in areas of cancer, heart disease, diabetes, cystic fibrosis, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, mental health, blindness, retardation, kidney disease, arthritis and physical disabilities through Easter Seal Society.

The event, to be held at the Town and County Convention Center, will feature as first prize for best costume a 1978 Toyota Corolla SR-5. Other prizes include a $1,000 stereo system, $700 water bed, $1,500 in clothing, $500 car stereo, $400 in records and a $500 portable television.

Tickets for the KPRI ball can be purchased through CHAD or any of the 12 CHAD agencies or at all Bill Gamble's Men's Wear Stores.

Halloween is not just for kids anymore, say the owners of various costume shops in San Diego County who are busily fitting the adult community for the numerous upcoming costume parties, such as the KPRI-CHAD event.

Although most of the costume establishments claim they are swamped with customers, many, apparently planning for the big event, say there still appears to be enough of a variety of costumes to go around. "The run this year has been on space costumes, probably triggered by 'Star Wars,'" says Betty Bradley, who with her husband Mike own and operate the San Diego Costume and Tuxedo Shop.

"We've also had a run on the musketeer and playboy bunny costumes. The gals seem to go for the show girl look, and the guys want to appear the washbuckling type. Gorillas also are the rage, and other animals are drawing interest, too." Betty thinks this has been triggered by the movie "Animal House." Roman togas are also "in," she adds.

When Betty runs out of a certain type of costume, she gets busy on her sewing machine situated in the giant room behind the storefront operation which houses some 2,000 or more costumes from eras dating from Biblical times to the most recent 50s craze.

When favorites wear out from constant use, she's busy making more look alikes with a little change here or there for a touch of individuality.

Creating costumes for such big occasions also is along Lisa de Young's line of work. Lisa is owner and manager of Fantasia, another costume outlet. If she has enough time, she'll do special orders, but that requires six weeks' to two months' notice.

"My latest creation is a Raid can that really poofs dust," she says. Her other originals include an ice cream cone, a giant tooth and a walking coke bottle. Betty says that one of their most unusual requests has been for a 6-foot twinkle.

Vernetta, manager and owner of Stage Door, recently had a request for a sheik outfit with 10 sheets for the harem. But her funniest was for a male belly dancer.

Susan Fero, owner and manager of Fun and Folly says her firm specializes in costume accessories. "We have over 200 different styles of masks. We find a lot of people like to make up their own combinations and accessorize a basic costume of their own design." Like Betty, Susan finds the trend is toward space figures. People are also big on old men masks, she adds. "And, of course, the favorites still are werewolf and Frankenstein."

Shop owners say costumes range in price from $15 for the simpler ones to $45 and $50 for the fancy or more involved.

Spooks Headed for San Altos' Halloween Carnival Oct. 28

A "spooky" Spook House will be the feature October 28 at the Halloween Carnival at San Altos Elementary school, 5-9 p.m. on the school grounds. All residents of the San Altos are are invited but "spooks" under 8 must be accompanied by an adult.

A dunking machine will attract the older students and adults. Dunkes will be Harold Ball, school principal; Mel Smith, 6th grade teacher; Chuck Tillman of the Tillman Fence Co., and Ski Zionskowski, assistant Cub Master of Pack 307 of San Altos School.

A spaghetti dinner will be served for $1.25. Hotdogs and hamburgers with all the dressings, coffee, soda and cotton candy will be available.

A merry-go-round for youngsters and a country store with all sorts of gifts is also planned.

The KGB chicken will pay the carnival a visit sometime during the evening, it was announced.

Women's Career Guide In Second Printing

"Setting Your Own Course," a women's career guide prepared by the County Commission on the Status of Women, is being distributed to local career counseling and vocational guidance centers for use by women in the community.

The guide, designed and written by Nancy Schaffroth with federal funds, has been so highly acclaimed that the commission decided to sponsor a second printing for wider community distribution.

Major emphasis in the guide is on how women can become more active in planning their life work. Topics covered include Personal Assessment, Looking at the Job Market, How to File a Sex Discrimination Complaint, and Local Resources and Support Groups for Women as well as specific tips on resume writing and interviewing.

Because of limited funds, the commission is asking interested organizations to duplicate additional copies. A few original copies are still available at the commission office at 1375 Pacific Highway.

Self-Defense, Cooking On Adult School Slate

Self-defense and cooking for the holidays are among the subjects of four courses offered beginning next week by the Grossmont Adult School, at various locations.

"Cooking for One or Two" will meet 9 a.m. through noon beginning Monday at La Mesa's Porter Hall, 4910 Memorial dr. The course will cover meal planning, shopping tips, use of large cuts of meat, cutting down favorite family recipes to serve one or two and the use of leftovers. At the end of each class meeting, students will eat their work for lunch.

"Self-Defense Designed for Women (Men Welcome)" will meet beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday in room 90 at the Helix Adult Center, 7323 University ave. in La Mesa. Two-and-a-half-hour sessions will include rules of personal safety, tactics for defense, non-physical strategies, and defenses in dangerous situations. Students may enroll at the first class session.

"Holiday Gift Foods" will be held from 6:30 through 9:30 p.m. beginning Wednesday at Grossmont High School.

Also beginning Wednesday, to meet from 7 through 9:30 p.m. six consecutive Wednes-

Train Excursion On Mexican Mainland

Pacific Southwest Railway Museum's annual one day rail trip to Puerto Penasco is scheduled for Saturday, November 4. This excursion is open to the public. Advance reservations are required.

Excursion Director Vern Cook said the special train will leave the International Border at the Calexico-Mexicali crossing at 8:30 a.m. and will return about 9 p.m. Excursionists may either drive their cars directly to Calexico or may ride special connecting buses from San Diego, La Mesa or Escondido.

The chartered train for this trip will be run by the Ferrocarril Sonora-Baja California, a railroad which connects Baja California and northwest Sonora with the Mexican mainland.

While in Puerto Penasco, visitors may view waterfront activities, visit downtown shops and attend a reception at a downtown hotel. Free bus transportation will be available in Puerto Penasco.

Cook said a brochure may be obtained from PSRM, 4119 Lymer dr., San Diego 92116. Telephone is 224-4381.

Soprano, Pianist Set for G'mont 'Local Artist' Show

The Women's Committee of the Grossmont Community Concert Association will present its free annual "Local Artists Concert" beginning at 8 p.m. next Thursday, October 26, at La Mesa's Ben Polak Auditorium, 8055 University ave.

The performance will be by Ruth Anne Christ, soprano, accompanied by Vesta Jenks at the piano. Included will be songs in several languages, including German, French, Italian and English.

Ruth Anne Christ sang in the original production of "Kismet" for which a special solo obbligato was written for her voice. She is married to Rev. Herbert Christ of the College Park United Presbyterian Church and is currently the performing soprano at the church. She is also a member of the San Diego Opera Company and sang in its fall production of "Hamlet."

Vesta Jenks has been pianist-organist at the Wesleyan Methodist Church at 54th and El Cajon blvd. for 24 years.

Refreshments will be served after the concert.

300 Mark Fire Day

More than 300 persons attended the annual Open House Day Saturday at the City of Lemon Grove's Fire Department on Central ave.

Taking part, as they do each year, was the Vogue Section of the L.G. Woman's Club. The women baked several hundred cookies while wives of the firemen served them with punch and coffee.

Tours of the station, films, equipment display and home heat detectors held the interest of the citizens who helped mark Fire Prevention Week.

Cleer Family to Leave

Les Cleer, a 10-year resident of Lemon Grove, is leaving this week.

Cleer, a signshop operator, says he and his wife are moving to Santa Rosa where he and his wife have relatives nearby.

He has accepted a part-time position to teach sign-painting at a trade school in Santa Rosa. He once taught the trade at City College.

Cleer is past president of the Lemon Grove Lions club and is its present bulletin editor.

Bridge Knocks Chacon's Use Of Billboards

Virginia Bridge, candidate for the 79th Assembly seat, proclaimed her opposition to use of billboards in her campaign to unseat 4-term incumbent Peter Chacon (D).

Mrs. Bridge, while Mayor of Coronado, was Vice-chairman of the San Diego Regional Coastal Commission. While on the commission, Bridge voiced her dislike for billboards within the coastal areas.

"It seems that everyone but the environment has a friend in Mr. Chacon," Bridge declared. Chacon's boards state that "You've got a friend" as part of his advertising campaign.

In another development, Mrs. Bridge's efforts to share the same forum with Mr. Chacon have so far proved futile. One debate is scheduled for November 6th on Channel 15, however, the Chacon campaign has refused to appear jointly with Bridge over and above the one show.

Starlight Opera Awards To Be Given Monday At Cafe del Rey Moro

Starlight Opera will present its 5th annual Star Awards Banquet Monday at 7 p.m. at the Cafe del Rey Moro in Balboa Park.

Similar to the Academy Awards but on a smaller scale, 11 categories of winners will get awards for helping to make Starlight's 1978 season the most successful in 30 years.

Executive Producer J. Howard Stein will present excerpts of production numbers in costume from 5 Broadway shows. The program will be staged by Don and Bonnie Ward who were directors and choreographers of this year's "Music Man."

9 members of Equity will receive special awards for services rendered to Starlight this season. Equity members appeared in the following productions:

"Music Man": Charles Bell as Mayor Shinn; Joe Endes as Marcellus, and Joyce Schumaker as Zanetta.

"Kismet": Patricia Morison as Latume; Ray Gibbs as Caliph, and Sam Van Dusen as Wazir.

"Annie Get Your Gun": Ron Hushman as Frank Butler; Pat White as Annie, and Von Schauer as Buffalo Bill.

Massing of Colors Is Sunday in S.D.

Massing of the Colors and Service of Remembrance will be held Sunday at the Organ Pavilion in Balboa Park.

The 24th annual pageant will start at 1 p.m. with a concert by the U.S. Marine Corps Band, Marine Corps Recruit Depot. The colorful ceremony brings together color-guard units from active military organizations, ROTC, Boy and Girl Scout troops, fraternal and service groups, American Legion, Fleet Reserve, veterans of Foreign Wars, and many other patriotic groups.

In addition to the impressive comingling of flags and uniforms a Service of Remembrance is conducted to pay homage to the many who have fallen in service to their country. The event was initiated and developed by the Military Order of the World Wars and it is presented in San Diego by the La Jolla-San Diego Chapter, MOWW.

The public is invited to join in the tribute. There is no admission charge.

Kudos for Gilliam

Editor: Congratulations to Superior Court Judge Earl B. Gilliam for rejecting the permissive bleeding heart philosophy of our Probation Department and its appeal not to send to jail a former Torrey Pines High School vice principal turned drug pusher.

There can be no compromise on pot as it leads to hard drugs, crime and death, and those who traffic in it are as much a taker of life as those who use a knife or gun and they should be dealt with in a manner to fit the crime.

4 months in the county jail is not much; however, it's a step in the right direction, and Judge Gilliam has shown the way for which I say "well done."

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

Hepatitis in Dogs

Hepatitis is one of the most common viral infections in dogs. So common that almost 80 per cent of all dogs are exposed to the disease before they're fully grown.

A highly contagious infection with effects that vary from a slight fever to a fatal illness, hepatitis is caused by a virus that settles in the dog's liver and kidneys. The first symptom is generally a temperature about 104° F., lasting from one to six days. As the infection progresses, the pet experiences weight loss, discharge from the eyes and nose, and extreme thirst. About 25 percent of the affected animals develop a temporary bluish-white eye discoloration.

Statistics indicate that the mortality rate from hepatitis for dogs, especially puppies, is very high. Dogs that do recover are slow to regain lost weight.

Once established, the hepatitis virus is excreted for months in the urine, even when the dog appears to have recovered from the disease. Susceptible animals are infected by contact with the contaminated urine, feces, bedding or toys used by a sick dog. Dogs in the country may become infected after exposure to the urine of foxes, coyotes or raccoons with the disease.

Symptoms of hepatitis and distemper are quite similar. Dogs vaccinated against distemper may come down with hepatitis, while the pet owner wonders why the distemper shot didn't "take." Hepatitis and distemper are separate diseases and pets should be vaccinated against both.

There are excellent vaccines that will protect your dog against hepatitis, or a combination of hepatitis, distemper and leptospirosis. These vaccines are constantly being modified and improved to offer the most protection with the fewest side effects.

This continuing search for improved vaccine protection has resulted in the control of one disadvantage associated with hepatitis vaccination. Occasionally, hepatitis vaccination has caused a reaction known as "blue eye." Certain attenuated (weakened) vaccine virus actually grows in the dog's cornea, causing it to become opaque. Blue eye generally disappears within several weeks, although permanent blindness results in some cases.

A new vaccine for prevention of canine hepatitis has recently been developed and is now available to veterinarians. It contains an attenuated virus that will not cause blue eye, and thus represents a significant advance in vaccine safety.

Puppies, the prime targets of hepatitis infection, should receive their first inoculation at about nine to twelve weeks of age. Before that time, puppies are protected by the immunity transmitted from vaccinated mothers. Annual vaccination for all dogs is strongly recommended.

It's Your Money

By John Foley

Part 1 of 2 Parts

Savings plans are offered by banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, and thrift institutions. The plans are similar, work in essentially the same way, but have different names to identify them at the various institutions.

Regular savings accounts sometimes known as "term," time deposits, Investors Passbook, Certificate of Deposit, Treasury Plus are just some of the names you are probably familiar with.

When you open a savings account, you begin a contractual relationship with that bank, s&l, etc. The terms and conditions of your relationship are outlined on the signature card you sign. The terms and conditions also appear in your passbook, receipt or certificate that you receive when you open the account.

Understand the terms and conditions. If you are not clear on what they mean, ask for clarification. You should know what the rate of interest is, the yield, the maturity, understand how the interest is calculated and when it is to be paid. Failing to have these basic points clearly understood may cost you money, create unnecessary problems and wind up defeating the purpose you may have had in mind for your savings plan.

Banks are regulated on savings plans as to the interest rate your account is earning on deposits of less than $100,000. On deposits of $100,000 and over, there is no maximum rate set by law. The law of supply and demand determines the rate available at any given time.

Planning to save and saving with a goal in mind are essential, if you are to be successful in your savings program. Be realistic as to what your wants and needs are. You can start by saving a percentage of your usable income.

After you have established the savings habit, you may wish to increase the amount you save. The important thing here, for beginners and others too, is to be consistent and realistic. By doing this, it should minimize the temptation to spend your paycheck when you get it, or as is so often the case, before you get it.

All banks, s&ls have a basic savings account known as "regular" or "term" account. This plan provides the greatest latitude for depositing and withdrawing. There are no restrictions as to the number of deposits that can be made or when they can be made. Withdrawals can also be made at any time, with some possible exceptions. In most cases, there is a service charge for excessive withdrawals in a quarter. Withdrawals can usually be made without notice. There could be a requirement for a written 30-day notice, but this is very unlikely.

In the case of opening a Time Deposit account, the first thing you will probably notice is that the initial deposit requirement is greater than that of the regular savings account. Secondly, the interest rate is higher. Then there is the matter of availability of your funds. In all cases of early withdrawal of funds from a Time Deposit account there is a penalty and forfeiture in interest involved. Time Deposits are usually recognized as being in the form of Passbook Accounts or in Certificates of Deposits. Ask your bank or s&l how they differ.

SDG&E Shows Record Demand For Electricity in Heat Wave

The hot spell that kicked Southern California temperatures to record highs last month pushed SDG&E electric system to a strained but record performance.

"Every air conditioner in the area must have been running," said Jack E. Thomas, SDG&E vice president-electric. "People were seeking relief from the broiling heat, and

UCSD Extension Takes New Home

The UC San Diego Extension on Monday opened the doors of its new offices to the public who've been taking its continuing education courses for some 61 years.

Located at 9600 N. Torrey Pines rd., at the spotlight just north of Muir College, the new facilities provide better access and parking for the public, as well as more space for the UCSD Extension staff.

UCSD Extension operates as a non-profit, self-supporting program, totally depending upon course fees and occasional grants, such as the one that allowed Extension and its affiliated group, the Institution for Continued Learning, to build the new facilities at 9600 N. Torrey Pines rd.

air conditioning was the obvious way to get it. The heavy usage also reflects the effect of continuing rapid growth in the area, which is adding an average of 100 customers a day to the electric system."

The demand for electricity reached a record of 1981 megawatts at 1 p.m. Monday, Sept. 25—181 megawatts higher than the previous peak of 1800 set during an earlier heat wave July 14.

Thomas noted that peak demand of 1981 megawatts was 100 megawatts higher than the company's 1978 peak load forecast for 1978 and only 20 megawatts below the forecast peak for 1979.

"The demand for electricity might have gone even higher had it not been for some unplanned service interruptions resulting from overloaded circuits and other causes," Thomas said.

Besides overloading some circuits, the heavy usage overloaded numerous transformers, interrupting service in other scattered locations, mostly in inland areas.

Electric crews changed 77 burned out transformers in a five-day period, while electric troublemen refused at least that many more.

Housing Starts Down in August, BofA Reports

New housing starts in California in August declined to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 253,000 units, the Bank of America reported.

This rate was down 8.9 per cent from the revised July rate of 281,000 starts, but slightly above the August 1977 rate of 254,000.

For the first eight months of 1978, actual starts in California of 161,568 units are down 9.4 per cent from the same period a year ago, bank economists said. Starts of single family homes are down 19 per cent, but apartment starts are up 14.6 per cent.

A continued decline in the rate of new starts for both single family homes and apartment projects is expected in the next few months, the bank said.

Ask Your C.H.P.

C.H.P. Capt. C. M. Douglas

Last time Capt. Douglas discussed carrying passengers in campers. If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It could save your life—or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper, and wait several weeks for your question to appear.

This week's question:

"For years I have been told never to pass on the right of another car. Are there any situations where I may legally pass on the right?"

Capt. Douglas' answer:

Yes, there are situations in which you can legally pass on the right. But before detailing them, I must say that it is a good practice not to pass on the right since slower vehicles are required to drive in the lanes to the right.

The driver of a motor vehicle may overtake and pass to the right of another vehicle only under the following conditions:

—when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn;

—upon a highway within a business or residential district with unobstructed pavement of sufficient width for two or more lines of vehicles moving in the direction of travel;

—upon any highway outside of a business or residential district with unobstructed pavement of sufficient width and clearly marked for two or more lines of moving traffic.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

Ever heard of a picuda? No, of course you haven't. I couldn't spell the name six months ago, and Al McClane doesn't list the species in his excellent Fishing Encyclopedia. But, I'm here to tell you that the picuda is one of the greatest gamefish in the world, and that you're going to be hearing a lot more about it in the near future.

The picuda, first of all, is a beautiful piscatorial critter. It has a body conformity like an Atlantic salmon, and, depending on the water it is taken from, may have a golden sheen to its scales and plated gill covers. If this isn't enough, the picuda also has a tall and fins tipped with crimson. All of this is topped off with a well muscled jaw more savage than a barracuda's or northern pike's. The picuda is "purty" all right, but it also looks mean as hell.

The picuda's strike might be compared to a bolt of lightning striking a keg of black powder. When it feels the hook it erupts from the water at the apex of the resulting explosion. Yeah, I know I may be guilty of over-writing at this point, and if I were referring to a largemouth bass or muskie, I'd feel a little shame-faced at the use of such superlatives. But, when you describe this fish no one or several adjectives seem sufficient. By comparison, a bass is "soggy," and a muskellunge is "listless." Honest, guys, the picuda is a helluva fish.

Rickman Charges Mills is 'Pirate'

Gerri Rickman, Republican opponent of State Senator James Mills, told the S.D. Centre City Optimist Club that Mills is a "Legislative Pirate" and has forgotten where he comes from and that he has victimized his 40th District constituency over the past 18 years.

One of things she charges Mills failed in is to answer the crying need for better public transportation.

Figure on a half dozen spray-flying jumps from each fish hooked and ten-to-one odds that you won't put this gamester into the boat. This fish throws lures with ease, and its powerful jaws are capable of crushing a treble hook into a harmless ball. If you can land one out of ten consider yourself a good fisherman or having a run of luck.

The picuda isn't a heavy-weight. It averages four or five pounds, frequently reaches ten pounds, and probably has a top size range of less than 20 pounds. I wouldn't know for sure. The largest picuda I've boated weighed 12 pounds and the only man I know who claims to have bested this record is a used car salesman from west Texas.

Bass tackle is therefore recommended for the species. I use a casting rod with plenty of backbone and my trusty Ambassador loaded with 20-pound test line. Favorite lures are Dardevle spoons, Meps spinners, and the saltwater Mirrolure jerk bait. A short wire leader is essential.

Picuda inhabit the same type of water that trout do. They prefer swift flowing, clear streams and commonly take up residence at the head of a riffle, behind big boulders or in the eddy below the fast water. And in this habitat they're a tougher antagonist than any trout that swims.

Picuda country is the Andes jungle of South America. They are prevalent in the La Raya river system in northern Colombia, and I have caught them as far south as the Rio Appaparis in the Amazonas region of this country. The species may actually be even more widespread, but at this point no one really knows for sure.

If you'd like to catch (or try to catch) a picuda, the best source for information on the subject is Braniff International. This airline publishes a book with several packages featuring picuda, and it's available for all who are interested. Title of the book is "Outdoor Adventures."

ECV Hospital Names New Psychiatry Chief

Robert N. Slotkin, M.D., is the new director of psychiatric services at El Cajon Valley Hospital. He will have full-time clinical and administrative responsibilities for the department, which includes 25 patient beds and a psychiatric rehabilitation center.

Before joining the ECVH, Slotkin had a private psychiatric practice in Tucson, Arizona, for about six years. He was also a faculty member of the University of Arizona School of Medicine and was assistant director of a 25-bed psychiatric unit at Pima County Hospital in Tucson.

Slotkin received his medical degree from West Virginia University School of Medicine in 1966. His internship was at St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa., and his psychiatric residency was at University of Pittsburgh Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinics.

He was in the army for two years, serving as chief of psychiatry and director of the mental hygiene consultation unit at Fort Huachuca, Arizona.

TRUE LOVE

The marriage of Vittoria Colonna in 1509 in Italy to Ferrante d'Avaloz, Marquis of Pasxaxa, was arranged for political reasons and not for love. But the two became so deeply in love that when her husband died, she entered a convent under vows to devote herself to his memory.

Hydrologist Named For Cleveland Nat'l Forest

Gary L. Larsen has been appointed Hydrologist for the Cleveland National Forest, said Frederik G. deHoll, Cleveland National Forest Supervisor in San Diego.

Larsen, who previously worked as Hydrologist for the Klamath National Forest in northern California, will serve as the principal assistant to the Recreation Resource Staff Officer, providing specialized assistance in environmental management support services, watershed restoration and improvement, water and soil related environmental impact studies.

He will serve on Forest interdisciplinary study teams as the Hydrologic and Soil Specialist collecting and assembling inventory data for hydrology, soils and geology.

A native of Washington, Larsen holds a B.S. Degree in Watershed Sciences from Colorado State University.
